Last night we learned of another positive case in an employee who works in the same department as the previously reported staff person.

Contracting COVID

Even though people are fully vaccinated they are still able to contract COVID. Public health experts have been telling us that the best protection against the virus is being vaccinated and also getting a booster. As a reminder, we will be offering booster shots again on Thursday, January 6. Please consider participating if you have not already received your booster. Additionally, we need to remember to follow the core principles of infection control such as handwashing, wearing masks, social distancing, being vaccinated and staying home when you are sick.

More Information for Testing for Harbors' Residents and All Staff

By the close of lunch yesterday, practically all of The Harbors' residents has been swabbed as part of our COVID testing and many staff as well. Today we will be testing anyone who was not tested yesterday.

Because of this new positive case, we will need to repeat testing for the next couple of weeks. Testing will happen on Thursdays and Fridays going forward. The exact details around timing and location are still to be determined and will be communicated broadly in a memo like this and/or shared through other communication vehicles. Testing is required for all staff, all Harbors' caregivers and contractors.

If an employee is unable to get tested at work they must go get tested on either Thursday or Fridays and provide their supervisor with a copy of their test result.
